Things Are Happening

Freshmen Orientation, Homecoming, Super Bowl Sunday, Baccalaureate, and Commencement. In 1987-88 NW not only experienced these traditional events, but several out-of-the-ordinary events as well. These included a visit from Vice President Bush, an increase in enrollment for a total of 899 students, and the dedication of Christ's Chapel and the DeWitt Music Hall. Although naming a "Professor of the Year" is an annual event, it was a new experience for Dick Van Holland, professor of business. Other traditional events were complemented with new ideas and activities, from an increased spring break service program to mud volleyball. Academically, athletically, socially and spiritually — things were happening at NW.

Things were happening academically and athletically in 1987-88. On November 17, NW presented Vice President George Bush with an honorary degree. Another academic highlight was the dawning of NW's elementary education graduate program. NW sent five wrestlers to Nationals, with two men being named All-Americans. The women's indoor/outdoor track teams qualified 14 events for the Nationals, and the men had seven. NW also added a $50,000 scoreboard to the DeValois Field.

Things were happening socially at NW during 1987-88. With the increased enrollment, residence halls were overflowing. Instead of feeling crowded, students took advantage of the opportunity to build relationships. Students didn't always rely on planned activities, but created their own fun; sometimes it was a Sunday afternoon of football, a trip to Taco John's or a game of Pictionary.

Things were happening spiritually at NW during 1987-88. The Student Ministries Boards kept busy preparing students for summer service projects, as well as shorter term missions over winter and spring breaks. Discipleship meetings were held on Wednesday evenings. Small group Bible studies were organized and other special events as well, including a campout at Oak Grove. Reaching out to students with Christian contemporary music was another approach taken during 1987-88.

Crossroads to the Future

Memories were in the making the moment new students arrived on campus and began to face the "Crossroads to the Future." Four months after the Orientation weekend, freshmen recall the fun they had playing new games, attending the midnight breakfast, and watching the Orientation Show. One student commented that some of the people she's become friends with are people she first met while playing new games. Other students recall the "no-touchie-kung-fu" at the midnight breakfast, as well as the other skits performed by the Residence Life and Orientation Staffs. The song "Twist and Shout" often reminds students of the Orientation Staff's airband performance at the Orientation Show. The Orientation Show promised the new students good times — the making of good memories — in their years to come at Northwestern. The staff performed skits that were illustrative of college life: moving in, meeting your roommate, getting up the nerve to call the cute girl from class, jamming with friends, avoiding your studies, etc. The 1987 Orientation Staff: co-leaders Paula Oelrich and Ardean Landhuis; Marcia Olson, Director of Orientation and Retention; Sharilyn Kerns, Janet Young, Greg Heemstra, George Larson, Gina Langstraat, Diana Pottroff, Sarah Hielkema, and Peg Krambeck.

Ice Cream, Mud, and the Rumbles

Students went hogwild wallowing in the mud and pigging out during Homecoming '87. Spiking muddy volleyballs and devouring sundaes from a gutter were some of the "Outrageous" activities planned by the 1987 Homecoming committee, co-chaired by Karen Vander Velde and Jim Else. Their assistants were Pam Gerdes and Jerry Zommerand.

Teams of six competed in the mud volleyball tournament Tuesday night at the Orange City Park. Covered with mud and grinning ear to ear, winners from the men's, women's, and co-ed divisions celebrated their victories.

Judges traveled through the residence halls Wednesday evening, evaluating the "Outrageous" decor. There was a tie for first place; third north Fern Smith created an "Outrageous Musuem," and the women on first floor of West Hall used different colors and foods to spell out "Outrageous" — they used everything from outrageous oranges to silver chocolate kisses.

Emcee Derek Brower interviewed the homecoming court at coronation Thursday evening. Kirsten Schafer of Boyden, Iowa, and Dave DeKoster of Lemars, Iowa, reigned during the parade and football game on Saturday. Other members of the court were: Colin Johnsen, Dave Sybesma, Kevin Van Veldhuizen, Jeff Herzberg, Janet Young, Nancy Vander Zwaag, Vonda Velgersdyk, and Shelly Jager.

Fourteen airbands performed to a full house at the Fourth Annual Airband Contest in the RSC mini-gym Friday night. Originality and creativity were at a peak with performances of "Eat It," "Blue Moon," and "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," just to name a few. Club Mystic won first place for their performance of Michael Jackson's "Thriller." Members of the band were Brent Kemp, Chrissie Kemp, Maggie Lockhart, Inga Lockhart, Nancy Nieuwkoop, and Brett Martinson.

Saturday afternoon the Raiders kicked off to the Hastings Broncos, and defeated them 14-13. At halftime, Doug Van Berkum announced that Second North Fern Smith's parade entry, "Heard it on the Grapevine," had won first place. Students and alumni — together totalling 750 people — celebrated the victory Saturday night as they danced to music by The Rumbles.

Winter Fun

"One, two, three. Back, side, side." Richard Miske's voice rang out across the old chapel as he instructed couples learning to waltz, swing, polka, and fox trot. Miske, of Orange City, lead four evenings of group lessons during the two weeks prior to the 1988 Winter Carnival ballroom dance. While dancers were mastering new steps, the Northwestern Jazz Band rehearsed popular dance tunes like "In the Mood," "Little Brown Jug," and "Georgia on My Mind." Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Shive of Sioux City joined the NW musicians at the dance on Friday evening, Shive on the saxophone, with his wife providing vocal solos. Guest pianist for a couple numbers that evening was Dr. John Stackhouse, professor of history. In addition to the dancing and live entertainment, students dove into a day of winter fun on Saturday — tubing at Inspiration Hills, horse-drawn sleighrides through the streets of Orange City, and a blizzard bash in the snack bar. After filling up on blizzards, movie buffs gathered in the Hospers lounge for an evening of romance, comedy, and drama. The all-night movies included "Man from Snowy River," "The Gods Must Be Crazy," and "Uncommon Valor."

Springfest '88

The ever-popular bucket brigade and raft race were back for Springfest '88. Although it rained all day on Wednesday, the sun came out just in time to shine on the bucket brigaders. "The Man with the Red Shoe" was shown Thursday evening in the RSC. Ann Vande Garde won a life raft as the award for the person with the biggest red shoe. On Saturday, a picnic was held at the Alton park, followed by a tug-of-war contest and the annual raft race down the mighty Floyd. The prize for the most original design was awarded to Greg Van Holland, Dan Van Perseum, and Jim Walhof. Winners of the raft race were Dirk Bak, Marc Kuiper, Vinny Quang, and Tim Hielkema.

Family Visitation

On Saturday, October 24, parents invaded the NW campus, anxious to see their offspring's home-away-from-home. In the morning, they met faculty and staff, and in the afternoon football fanatics witnessed a thrilling Raider victory. Following a vocal/instrumental concert, parents and students indulged at a sundae bar. Siblings had their turn to explore campus during the weekend of March 18-20. The weekend's activities included the Fern Smith Carnival, entertainment by the Master Productions drama team, and a dance. Kids of all ages enjoyed "Willie Wonka's Chocolate Factory."

Dedication of Christ's Chapel and DeWitt Music Hall

Alumni, financial supporters, faculty, administration, and students poured into the newly constructed chapel on April 10 for the dedication of the new 4.1 million dollar edifice. Marvin DeWitt was awarded an honorary doctor of humanities degree at the dedication service. The music wing was named in honor of the DeWitt family. Marvin, a former member of the NWC Board of Trustees, and his family have been major benefactors and leaders of NW for many years. The chapel was dedicated as Christ's Chapel, and was designed for daily chapel services, campus and community concerts, special community services and Christian theatrical performances.

The first donations for the chapel and performing arts center were received during the 1950's. The Call to Commitment Campaign began during 1984. Construction began in 1986. Christ's Chapel is equipped to seat 1,000 people. It also includes a state-of-the-art recording and amplifying system. The DeWitt Music Hall consists of 10 practice rooms, faculty offices, a 45-seat classroom, piano lab, music library, and separate rehearsal rooms for the choir and band. The choir rehearsal room was named in honor of Lawrence Van Wyk, director of NW's A cappella Choir from 1954-1976. The 60th Anniversary of the NW A cappella Choir was celebrated in Christ's Chapel on April 17, 1988. The anniversary concert incorporated previous members of the A cappella Choir. Other band/vocal concerts were held in the chapel during April and May, including a performance by the NW Drama Ministries Ensemble. Dr. Robert Wise led the first chapel service in the new location on Monday, April 11, 1988. Baccalaureate was also held in Christ's Chapel on Friday, May 13, 1988.

Ministering with Music

NW's concert committee spent hours planning, praying, and setting up chairs for two major concerts — David Meece and Petra. As part of his "Candle in the Rain" tour, David Meece performed to a sell-out crowd at NW on November 14. His performance was preceded by music from Morgan Cryar and Renee Garcia. Over 2200 people poured into the RSC to enjoy an evening of Christian contemporary music. On April 15, Petra exploded with music from their latest album, "This Means War!" The five-man band shared their music ministry with the 1500 people in attendance. They also gave personal testimonies followed by an alter call. In preparation for the Petra concert, the concert committee hired a contractor to build a 40'x48' stage, five feet in height. The committee who put the stage together, in addition to the other tasks, included: Lesli Kohout (concert coordinator), Val Nelson, Karla Fischer, Jon DeJong, Mark Jensen, Crystal Dykstra, Cheri Waggoner, Brenda Bruxvoort, Jolene Groen, Ronna Yearsley, Bev Van Drie, Julie Van Zee, Shannon Hecker, Laura Butcher, Karna Van Maaren, Sheba Azariah, Jodi Walker, Todd Huesman, Terri Orezzaoli, Vinnie Quang, and Becky Sorenson.

And We'll Have Fun, Fun, Fun . . .

Tom Cruise, Kelly McGillis, Kathleen Turner, Charlie Sheen and Humphrey Bogart: the 1987-88 movie committee outdid themselves in meeting the requests of the student body, from "Top Gun" to "The Seventh Seal." NW students also found their music appetites filled. In addition to David Meece and Petra, concerts were given by Joni Kerns, Swen, and Jon Byron. Regency, a five-men acapella band, also entertained students with tunes like "Under the Boardwalk" and "Stand By Me." When just listening to music wasn't enough, students were able to attend a variety of dances, from Fern Smith's Annual Halloween Dance to Hosper's Beach Dance. In addition to movies, music, and movement, the Student Activities Council organized other weekend events. In the fall they sponsored a hayride and bonfire, and during the spring semester they built a "super submarine sandwich."

A Shayna Maidel

A Pretty Girl Debuts at Northwestern

A Shayna Maidel is about a woman who was reunited with her family after World War II. Lusia is a stranger in her sister's home and feels angry toward her father who left her and her mother alone in Europe during the Holocaust. She remembers what she was before the war and tries hard to accept her life after the devastation of the Holocaust. Lusia's sister Rose, who came to America at two years of age, also struggles with her identity and searches for what her European family was like. She has a feeling of guilt because while she was playing stickball and going to movies, Lusia was suffering in a concentration camp. The play shows the struggle of a family trying to rebuild.

The actors and actresses worked hard in learning about the culture of the 1940's and the Yiddish language. Professor McGee had the cast read articles about the 1940's, Jewish life, and concentration camps to add a deeper understanding of the times. The most difficult aspect was learning Yiddish and acquiring a Yiddish accent. Cast members learned the language by listening hour after hour to tapes made by Arthur Lease, an authority on voice and movement.

Northwestern had to receive special permission from the New York producer to do the play because it was opening off-Broadway the same weekend. According to Professor McGee the play had only been done three other times in the United States prior to the curtains opening at Northwestern.

Playboy of the Western World

The ushers gracefully seated the people at the towering brick church turned Playhouse. Up in the light booth, Kristi Naber and Becky Grantham spoke in loud whippers over the headsets, conversing with Stage Manager Marty Van Dusen who was backstage. Dr. Keith Allen and Dina Miller cheerfully handed new arrivals their reserved tickets, while the "Playboy of the Western World" cast put the finishing touches on their makeup. Another show was about to begin.

"The Playboy of the Western World," Shanna Beth McGee's last NW production, is the story of an Irish criminal, Christy Mahon (David Bareford), with the "gift of gab." Christy is welcomed into the County Mayo, where he is harbored from the British police. In return, Christy's beautiful language gives the people of Mayo a "glimpse of the good life."

According to McGee, "The language of the play is a mixture of English and Gaelic translated into English." Although the dialect was sometimes difficult to understand, the audience became accustomed to it and enjoyed the Irish humor.

Large, Furry Animals Invade Cafeteria

The spectacle of several large, furry animals eating lunch in the cafeteria (using forks and spoons) was one that attracted quite some attention Tuesday, January 26. The cast of the Children's Play, "The Tales of Brer Rabbit," had just completed their first production for an audience of preschool to sixth grade children. They did not feel like removing their makeup and extensive, furry costumes only to have to put it all back on two hours later for another show.

A great amount of work went into preparation for "The Tales of Brer Rabbit." As the cast was going over their lines and working on blocking, the crew slowly transformed the RSC mini-gym into the region called "Briar Patch." Needless to say, this spectacle attracted attention as well. "In fact," said technical director Scott Crane, "20 million little kids have been checking it out every day."

Everything began to come together in the dress rehearsals, and certain benefits and problems became apparent. For instance, there were logs to be crawled through and briar patches to be thrown into, but some of the actors had difficulty using their props with mittens on, and running on a tile floor with fur on their feet proved to be troublesome too. Another slight problem arose when George Larsen (Brer Wolf) was supposed to trip over Ardean Landhuis (Brer Tarrypin), but instead of acting, actually did trip. He was later taken to the hospital, where it was revealed that he had torn the tendons and ligaments of his arm. He went on anyway, and a strategic costume change added a sling to his already motley wolf gear. Performing before an audience of grade school kids was an altogether different matter. Approximately 5500 kids saw one of the eight showings on January 26 through 29 — 5500 kids that would be at resident bad guy Brer Wolf (George Larsen) and scream when Brer Rabbit (David Bareford) was about to get trapped. The actors soon got used to the reactions from the excitable audience. In addition, the actors would welcome the kids as they came in, introducing them to the characters, the areas on the set, and giving them a taste of the action to come. One of kids asked Brer Rabbit (David Bareford) where he was really from and when he found out that Bareford is from California, asked "What are you doing in Iowa?"

"Dressing up like a rabbit," Bareford responded.

Fred 'N' Erma

What happens when a church community decides to expand its ministry by building a gymnasium and bowling alley? Calvin Miller provides a humorous point of view on church missions with his play "Fred 'N' Erma." Fred's own perspective on missions is influenced by his son Milo's interest in missionary work; he starts out calling the missionaries "monkey-eaters," and has a change of heart by the end of the play. Senior Becky Grantham directed Fred 'N' Erma at Northwestern February 26 and 27. She worked with a 10 member cast which is unusually large for a student production. Becky Grantham, a senior majoring in communications and drama-speech, has been in several college and community productions including "Hello Dolly," "Working," and "Shayna Maidel." Costuming for the production was done by Heather Harrison and technical director was Ardean Landhuis.

One Size Fits All

The Drama Ministries Ensemble (Formerly Choral Readers) wrote and performed their first production "One Size Fits All" this year. The Group also toured North-eastern United States and Canada during spring break, performing in schools and churches. They also spent two days sight seeing in Niagara Falls and Toronto. The play deals with a group of youth who are stranded at a retreat. Tension mounts between the teens that is finally broken when they work together to see how God fits into their lives.

1988 proved to be an exciting year for Northwestern's A cappella Choir. The year began with the moving of the music facilities from Van Peursem to the Performing Arts Center. New practice rooms and better acoustics provided a more aesthetic environment for music students and faculty. A cappella Choir prepared literature especially for Parents' Day, Christmas Vespers, Winter Tour, and their Spring Home Concert. In February, the sixty-eight member choir set off in a double-decker bus to tour North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Many students enjoyed a short break from classes while sharing their faith through music. The highlight of spring was the participation in the Chapel Dedication and the celebration of the A cappella Choir's sixtieth anniversary. To join in the celebration were one hundred and three Northwestern alumni, directed by Dr. Schouten and former Professor Lawrence Van Wyk.

Band Visits West Coast

The highlight of this year's concert band was a ten-day tour including stops in South Dakota, North Dakota, Idaho, Montana, and Washington. The band played in churches and schools on the way to Washington. Long bus rides between destinations provided good opportunities for becoming friends over card games, Pictionary, and snacking. While in Seattle, the band took a day off to sightsee. Popular options were shopping in the Seattle Center and skiing on Mt. Baker.

In addition to the tour, the band had a busy school year with performances at Parent's Day, the fall concert, Christmas Vespers, chapel dedication, and the spring concert. Concert band has enjoyed the convenience of the DeWitt Music Hall due to the proximity of the storage rooms, practice rooms, and performing areas.

Jazz Band Provides Music At Winter Carnival Dance

Jazz band performed at Parents' Day and at high schools on band tour, but once again the highlight of the year was playing dance music for the Valentine's Day Dance during Winter Carnival. Some guest performers were Reggie and Donna Shive on alto sax and voice, as well as Dr. John Stackhouse on piano. They featured some old jazz tunes such as: "In the Mood," "Tuxedo Junction," and "Angel Eyes." The jazz band practiced every Monday after band to prepare for the event.

Heritage and Women's Choir

The select twenty-two members of Heritage Singers were directed by Dr. Schouten. They performed at their Spring Home Concert in the Christ Chapel. They practiced a variety of music from madrigals, contemporary, jazz and ballads on Tuesdays and Thursdays during second semester.

The thirty members of Women's Choir performed songs such as "Psalm 100" and "The Tallis Canon." Their performances included Parent's Day, Christmas Vespers, Chapel Dedication, and also the Spring Home Concert.

S P O R T S

As in every great program a team needs to have a below average year every once in a while to nullify any beliefs that they are super human beings. That may have been the case as the '87 Red Raider football squad stumbled to a 3-7 record.

As is often the case when a great team is reduced to a more mortal level, a young and injured team occupied the field during the fall for our Raiders. This caused inconsistent play on both sides of the ball. The defense struggled trying to patch together some sort of half-way healthy line-up for the upcoming game, which allowed opponents to score more than the average amount of points against the Raiders. On the other side of the ball, the offense never really got untracked seeming at times to lack the timing required to run the offense. But the Raiders did show flashes of great things to come throughout the season, especially in the thrilling come from behind victory over Doane in the Raider's home opener. Jeff Herzberg and Shawn Wharton were named to the All-District 15 team, while Tim Aberson and Dave Bronner were pegged as honorable mention performers. Kevin Post was named MVP by his teammates for the defense and Jeff Herzberg earned that honor on the offensive side of the ball.

Raider Spikers 14- 10 Under New Coach

First year Coach Cheryl Statema was extremely satisfied with the strength of the women's team and felt the '87 volleyballers displayed a great deal of poise and talent on the volleyball court. The Northwestern spikers compiled a 14-10 record throughout the season, although hampered by a few key injuries during the season.

Vonda Velgersdyk was named a first team All-Conference and second team All-District selection, as well as team MVP and model athlete for the '87 season. Kathy Carlson was a second team member of both the All-Conference and All-District teams. She was also elected most improved by her teammates. Vonda Post was elected most inspirational. The JV (10-1) elected Sheri Hoogeveen most improved and Julie McKinstrey MVP.

The women's basketball season had many ups and downs. They were a relatively young ball club with only two starters returning from last season. This, coupled with several injuries throughout the season, left first year coach Cheryl Statema with much rebuilding to do.

Although a 7-20 record doesn't seem impressive, there were many good things to be found in the 87-88 season. The Red Raiders finished fifth in the conference and made the district tournament, but they were beaten in the first round.

The making of the play-offs can be attributed to poise, leadership and hard work after Christmas. The women really came on strong the second half of the season to show that they really were play-off material.

Indicative of the season was the one point loss to St. Ambrose. The Red Raiders came closer to beating the Bees, than had any other team all season. They had several close games throughout the season, but often came up on the short end of the scoreboard.

The women received strong play from Karmen Woelber and Melinda Mellema throughout the season. They were selected to various All-Tournament teams and Melinda was chosen first team All-Conference and All-District. Karmen, along with Jane Van Klompenberg, was also selected 2nd team All-Conference.

Successful Raiders

The men's basketball team had a good season even though the finale wasn't quite what they had hoped. Their 20-8 season ended a bit abruptly with an 88-82 loss to Briar Cliff College in the first round of the district tournament.

The season held record breaking performances by the team in the areas of most points in one game — 125, best scoring average in one season — 96.36, and best percentage of rebounds — .581. They also finished tenth or higher in three categories in NAIA National statistics. An individual record was tied by Kevin Van Veldhuizen in the category of most points in one game — 42 and he set a record for most rebounds in one game — 27. He also finished second in NAIA stats with a 15.79 rebounding average.

This year's team had seven outstanding seniors who have had three excellent seasons as Red Raiders. According to Coach Les Douma, "They're great people and great workers." The seniors were given support by a superb group of underclassmen who will provide the necessary leadership for next year.

National Bound Women

The Women's 1987-1988 indoor-outdoor seasons were the best Coach Barry Brandt has had in his four years at Northwestern College. The women continued to progress as the year went on, which is what coaches and athletes like to see.

At the end of indoor season, the team sent 6 events to Nationals. These 6 events allowed them to finish 12th overall in the meet. The 4x400 yard relay, consisting of Vonda Velgersdyk, Teri Van Wechel, Paula Truesdell, and Janel Hulstein, finished 3rd in the nation. By doing this, these women attained All-American honors. Also at Nationals, Vonda Velgersdyk received 4th place honors in the 600 yard run, and Paula Truesdell finished 6th in the 400 yard run.

The outdoor season had an exceptionally strong finish. The 4x400 meter relay qualified for the Drake Relays. Northwestern and Iowa State were the only Iowa schools to qualify in this event. The women then repeated as champions of their own meet and the following weekend went to the Howard Wood Relays in Sioux Falls. At this meet, both the Sprint medley and the 4x400 relay broke meet records. To cap off a fine outdoor season, the women sent 8 events to Nationals in Azusa, California.

The coaches, Barry Brandt, Dale Thompson, and Larry Korver have really appreciated all the efforts of the athletes and the support of the community. The athletes were pleasant to work with and the seniors will be missed.

Strong Year on the Track for NW Men

The men had a good season with the strongest showing in several years. They progressively got better throughout the seasons, both indoor and outdoor. The only downfall to the season came from some injuries to several athletes. The men, as well as the women, competed with some top-notch competition, including several NCAA Division II schools.

The indoor season was highlighted by a trip to Nationals, which had 3 events qualify — 4x400 yard relay, 400 yard run, and the 600 yards run. The relay team was one of the 18 fastest in the nation and consisted of Richard Miller, Tim Aberson, Steve Van Otterloo, and Doug Abel. Doug ran the 400 and was joined in the 600 by Tim Aberson.

The men fared well in outdoor as well. They also were champs of their own relays. At the Drake Relays the 4x400 meter relay team qualified for the finals, quite an accomplishment. At Howard Wood, Tim Aberson was the 400 meter hurdle champ for the 2nd time and the grand finale has 4 events qualified for Nationals in Azusa, California.

This is the largest contingent that NW has taken to Nationals. The National standards have gotten tougher, but so have Northwestern athletes. Their work ethic has been excellent and they have become the best that they can be.

Four Named All-Conference

Coach Paul Janssen's first year as the Raider softball coach was an exciting one. The season had many close games, too many. These games came from many young players who were inexperienced and not used to playing together. Overall, the season was good, ending with a 1-0 loss to Morningside in sub-district play.

For the year, there were a lack of clutch hits and many one-run ballgames resulted. The team was dominated by strong pitching and defense, ending with a 21-13 overall record and a 7-3 conference record, which put them in a tie for 2nd place. Highlights for the season included placing four people on lo-Kota All-Conference teams — Sr. Jorja Heitland (infield) and Fr. Judy Pearse (outfield) on 2nd team; Jr. Wendy Herzberg (pitcher/outfielder) and Sr. Jill Pals (pitcher/outfielder) on 1st team. Herzberg and Pals were also named to the NAIA All-District 15 Team.

The 1988 baseball season with many highlights. The season capped off with a trip to Des Moines for play-offs, after finishing third in District 15. Another noteworthy event was the setting of a new school record with 22 victories in a season. At one point during the season, the Raiders had a nine-game winning streak.

Pitching and hitting were a strong mainstay for the Raiders this year. The pitching had improved, accented by Kurt Witte's 6-2 record and a 1.70 ERA. At bat, the team averaged .315, led by Randy Wissink's .375 average. For the regular season play, the team ended with 7 players batting over .300.

The Raiders will lose six seniors, but they have a strong nucleus returning to play in 1989.

Cross Country Runners Gain Needed Experience

Head Coach Dale Thompson said that the men's cross country team had a very successful year. They learned they could run in control over a longer distance. Four of the six members had never run cross country before. Junior Chris Halligan and sophomore Russ Smith were the two runners with experience. The rest of the team consisted of sophomore Todd Puttman, senior Brian Bartle, and two freshmen, Greg Marco and Doug De Zeeuw.

Since Northwestern is rebuilding its program, the team only ran in one meet, but participated in several area road races. The team placed sixth in a ten — team field at the Worthington meet. Northwestern also finished third at a team road race in Worthington.

Next year looks to be a very promising year for the Red Raider cross country squad after the experience gained in '87.

Young Team Fares Well

At the beginning of the season, Coach Paul Bartlett and his wrestlers set some goals. These included: finishing above .500, sending five wrestlers to nationals, and getting two All-Americans. They came very close to each of these goals. Their season record was 9-9 in dual meets, they sent four grapplers to nationals, and had two All-Americans — Tracy Ping placed sixth at 126 pounds in the national tournament and Dan De Groot received Academic All-American honors at 177 pounds.

Coach Bartlett felt he had a "good group of guys." He saw a great deal of hard work and improvement throughout the season, even though injuries hampered them in mid-season. Overall, they were a young team, with a strong nucleus returning for next year. These athletes, together with some promising recruits, should give us another exciting season next year.

A special note: Jeff Evenhouse made it to nationals for the fourth straight year and was just one match away from placing. He ended his career with an impressive 101 wins.

Rebuilding Year For Women's Tennis

The women's tennis program returned after a one-year absence. They finished the season with a 1-7 dual meet record. The Raiders' performance on the court was hindered by a lack of competitive experiences. The team's skills did improve as the season went on. Jill Horstman had an excellent season and finished with a winning record. Kaaoru Hattori also came on strong at the end by winning 3 out of the last 4 matches. The season was relatively short this year, which did not allow for much progress. The program will continue to rebuild next year with several returning underclassmen.

Young Mens' Team Came on Strong

Perhaps the toughest schedule ever played by a NW tennis team left the Raiders with a 6-5 dual record. One of the highlights of the season was traveling to Texas A and M over Spring Break. The team played tough competition and learned a great deal. The biggest highlight came toward the end of the season when the team won the 2-day Buena Vista Invitational. The three seniors — Brian Brands, Steve Grond, and Dale Hemmingsen all had a strong showing at the end of the season. The team was very young, with freshman and sophomores playing exceptionally well. Tom Beals had a great season and to cap it off, was named MVP as a freshman.

The women's golf team, consisting of Brenda Schipper, Sue Cleveringa, Denise Hansen, Berta Ramos, and Dawn Van Berkum had an average season, finishing second in the conference.

The golfers improved dramatically as the season progressed which was the most fun. Brenda and Sue have been the mainstay of the program for several years and ended with a good senior year. Brenda finished with her personal best against Briar Cliff.

Best In History

Entering the District tournament the men's golf team was 31-0. They played tough competition and attained the goal they wanted, District tournament. However, once they made it that far, they didn't play as well as they would have liked. As a team, they finished third, with freshman Mike Ray winning runner-up medalist honors.

Senior Dave Chickering was number one golfer all year and a very stable part of an excellent team. The students were a lot of fun to work with and really gave it their all. Atypical to many sports, the men golfed in all types of weather. They didn't let high winds, cold, or rain slow them down. As a matter of fact, they felt it was to their advantage because they practiced in all kinds of weather, too.

The Raider Golfers ended the season 55-6 with a .902 winning percentage and that is the best in the history of golf at Northwestern.

Because They Care

Washing your hair at 6:00 A.M. in a lake, predicting the effects of a Russian bomb attack, and climbing through a triangle three feet off the ground are a few of the unusual events tackled by this year's Residence Life Staff. Staff members were exposed to the elements of nature as part of the pre-year training at a park in Minnesota. The idea prompting these events was to create a sense of interdependence and cooperation between the staff members. Aside from learning to work together, several staffers came back to campus with poison oak.

A common goal of the group was to promote both academic and spiritual growth of students in the residence halls. RA's met weekly in each residence hall to keep the spirit of unity alive and to help strengthen their commitment throughout the year.

The Student Ministries Board spent time during the year reaching out to students through Christian activities. The Board helped with chapel services and designed service projects for other students to participate in during school breaks. They tried to reach out to minister to the needs of the campus and provide opportunities for Christian growth.

Reaching Out — SAC

Each year the Student Activities Council plans and coordinates a variety of campus activities that students participate in. SAC brought movies, dances, concerts, special speakers, comedians, and drama teams to campus this year. Some of the year's highlights were concerts such as David Meece and Petra, and movies like Top Gun, Short Circuit, and Platoon.

Give a Little Heart, Adopt the World

Impacting NW's campus was a direct result of the International Club members. With a growing club, members reached out to bring the International and American students closer as a community.

Things are Happening on Cornerstone

Deadlines, commitment, and fast-paced action were all part of being a member of the Cornerstone staff. Yearbook workers pushed up their sleeves and dug in to make the 1988 "Things Are Happening" yearbook a success. Advisor, Barb Cummelin, along with co-editors Kim Cook and Peg Krambeck stressed punctuality and excellence. Cornerstone '88 staff members worked to create a lasting portrait of life at Northwestern.

Creativity Alive in NW's Beacon

Updates on the Chapel/Performing Arts Center, Bush controversy, SGA action, David Meece and Petra concerts. The Beacon intently covered all these major stories for the NW campus community. This year's staff combined integrity and quality with a new layout and design to meet their deadlines and inform the campus at large.

Spirit of Triumph

Persuading crowds, encouraging players, and having a good time were all part of being a 1987-88 Cheerleader. The women and men spent their time getting people to root and holler and cheer their team on to victory. Commitment and determination were the key ingredients to this year's squads. A goal to spread enthusiasm to the campus provided a challenge throughout the year.

Pom Pons

Fresh new talent, enthusiasm, group unity, and school spirit were all components of this year's Pom Pon squad. Some of the songs used for routines this year included: "Catch Me I'm Fallin'," "I Saw Mama Kissin' Santa Claus," "Far From Over," and "Sing Unto the Lamb." Aside from the long hours of practicing and performing, the group formed a unity that was a great help in their performances.

Representing the Students

Initiation, open dorms, chapel conduct, and commuters were all issues addressed by this year's Student Government. Headed by president David Sybesma and vice-president Brian Van Haaften, the group met every Monday night to discuss problems and propose solutions as representatives of the student body. One of the main goals of the group was to develop stronger relations with commuters. The major goal was the establishment of a commuter center on campus.

Some of the main issues and concerns dealt with were freshman initiation policies, the improvement of chapel conduct, open dorm hours, revisions of the SGA constitution, creating a suggestion box for student's to voice thier concerns and opinions, getting crosswalks put in from major sidewalks, and looking into the requirements of interns and student teachers. SGA also was concerned with getting KQNW broadcast in the RSC and working on the current campus phone system and complaints surrounding it.

For Your Enjoyment

Films, picnics, and retreats were all adventures shared by this year's FCA members. Fellowship of Christian Athletes met two Sundays a month, with meetings consisting of a physical activity plus a small group discussion. Greg Heemstra, Sarah Hielkema, and Melinda Pickett, assisted faculty sponsor Dave Mulder in directing the group's activities.

Sarah Hielkema explained the group as being "for anyone who liked to have fun and fellowship with others." FCA's goal for the year was to simply get more students involved while trying to meet the needs of those who attend.

Maintaining it's original name, derived from the first two Greek letters in Christ, Chi Rho adopted a new purpose and identity. Chi Rho's new emphasis was to provide students with opportunities to meet chapel speakers over an evening meal. This small group setting allowed those interested to interact in an informal and personal atmosphere.

Chi Rho's membership policy, as stated by Larry Baker, was simply "everyone is invited to participate with little or no time commitment." The group's future goals include making the campus more aware of Chi Rho while maintaining it as a low time-commitment organization.

The group's core leaders were Larry Baker, president; Derek Brower, vice-president; and Julie Bundt, secretary. Doug Shepler was Chi Rho's faculty representative.

Communicate in the Fast Lane

Acquiring two new Sony television cameras over Christmas break proved to be a great asset to the Northwestern T.V. studio. Communication enthusiasts once again maximized their talents by providing weekly broadcasts of "NW Week in Review" and other community programs.

KQNW, the campus radio station, provided five hours of daily programming, consisting of Christian contemporary and rock-and-roll shifts. Students operating the 6:00 to 7:00 pm shifts selected music of their choice.

The 1987-88 T.V. programming crew was under the direction of faculty advisor Bill Herzog. Students in charge were director/producer Fawzy Simon and stage manager Ann Vander Kooi. Other staff members were Ted Shultz, sports anchor; Mike Core, sports anchor; Brent Kemp, anchor; Paul Voigt, anchor; Missy Lubbers, tapes; Reece Kelch, camera; and Dean Fjeld, camera.

Beta Sigma

Pro — Musica

Striving for ways to deal with social problems from a Christian perspective is what Beta Sigma was all about. The club's members were, as pictured, Dr. Steve Cobb, Calvin Meinders, Bill Swart, and Yvonne Meyer.

Designed to help promote musical events on campus, Pro-Musica once again had a busy year. Trips to both Omaha and Minneapolis were part of the year's activities. Pro-Musica members are (front) Ernie Reineke, Melodee Weisbrod, Londa Waggoner, and Mike Brumels; (back) Pam Orth, Carrie Rubenking, Laura Verdorn, and Ken Ven Huizen.

Student Alumni

Young Democrats

Bacchus

Helping the alumni to have more interaction with the campus was the goal of the new Student Alumni Association. The group is back row Kelly Bass, Scott Ranck, Deb Falkena, and Jody Quintus. The front row Donette Smolik, Laura Verdorn, and Donna Cerra.

Being in the top 10% of the Senior class is not a piece of cake, just ask a Sigma Tau member. Pictured are 1988 members Dr. Vander Werff, A. Lammers, D. Tellinghuisen, G. Beran, D. Kennedy, D. Kuiper, R. Haight, K. Widman, J. Opgenorth, and S. Van Meeteren. Not pictured is B. Martens.

Art majors and enthusiasts put their talents and interests together once again to form the Art League. The group promoted not only an art show but also the black and white dance. League members were Scott DeKok, Patti Kooinga, Brian Bartle, Yvonne Meyer, and Cheryl Eichorn.

Language and Literature

President Tracy Henninger organized English Club activities ranging from a poetry reading to a trip to the Western Christian Literature Conference at Wheaton College. Under the direction of President Kim Koppenhaver, the French Club hosted monthly a French film or a French table in the cafeteria. The Spanish Club met twice monthly for "tertulias" (dining and Spanish conversation) in the cafeteria.

Being a member of a group is not all serious business, sometimes it means having fun, making friends, and sharing in the work of it all. These groups have had their share of fun and friends during the year and here is the proof of it.

Caps, Gowns and Diplomas

Parents, grandparents, and friends arrived early on Saturday morning, May 14, in order to see 187 students cross the platform to receive their diplomas. This included four students who received their Associate of Arts degrees. The 1988 Faculty Honors Award was presented to Donald Tellinghuisen. Jon Opgenorth received the H.V.E. Stegeman Award, given to the student with the highest grade-point average from a minimum of sixteen hours of religion courses. During the commencement exercises, Reverend Garret Docter of Orange City was presented with an honorary degree from NW. George De Vries, professor of history, gave the commencement address entitled "What Next?" Professor De Vries completed his 31 years of teaching at NW in 1988.

This year we've seen the "Call to Commitment" campaign fulfilled in Christ's Chapel and the DeWitt Music Hall. People committed themselves to making the new facility a reality by supporting a dream with time, money and prayer. It seems appropriate that we too should be open to the Lord's calling in our lives, committing ourselves to make things happen.

"Commit your way to the Lord, trust also in Him, and He will do it." Psalm 37:5
